Description

Forget about cruising bookstores. Give up on clicking through the endless, soulless corridors of the book-buying internet. Binder is a fun way to discover new and interesting books nearby by matching books to readers with a flick of the fingertips! Here is how it works: If you're interested in connecting with a book on Binder, then just anonymously Swipe right to Like it; or Swipe left to Pass. (Remember: R to L or L to P.) If the book likes you back, then it's a match! You're set for some happy reading—for a lifetime, or maybe just for the night. We won't tell! Every book and person on Binder is real, probably, and has been authenticated through Bookface, the social network for books.

Binder is the number one social media book finder. Compared to other social "read"ia apps, it's much kinder. It helps you meet new books without needing a minder. By the way, it's pronounced "BIN-der," rhymes with cinder. Please don't say it wrong, we don't know why everyone does that.

I was new to the city and didn't know ANY bookstores. Binder helped me find the perfect book. We're still together today! Though we only met yesterday.

Easy to Explain ★★★

It's like Uber for books, except that they don't get delivered to your location and you don't have to tip them. Maybe it's more like Venmo for books? Or Clickclack? Or like Facebook for books, except that you can only see one person at a time. To be honest I was afraid to try it until someone explained how it's pronounced. Let me come back to this, actually, I'm not sure what I'm trying to say.

Whoever said you can't judge a book by its cover obviously has never used this app. I tried the library scene, I tried speed reading, I ate every meal at a table of contents. I spent too many late nights clicking through pictures of strange books and wondering what was beneath those jackets. But only Binder found a book that really opened up to me. Whether you want a book with benefits, a long-term reading relationship, or just one to cuddle up with on a cold night, Binder is the book finder that will find you the book that you've been trying to find.

When people say that millennials are hooked on instant gratification, I have to shut them down IMMEDIATELY and tell them that they are WRONG, WRONG, WRONG. Good thing I have my Shutdown app for that. What a rush! Oh, and Binder's great, too. Four stars!
